

 SOUTH SALT LAKE
CELEBRATING 75 YEARS

On The Move

CITY NEWSLETTER
HEALTH EDITION

South Salt Lake
Mayor's Office

Hamlet Homes Breaks Ground on New Townhomes

Officials from Hamlet Homes and the City of South Salt Lake broke ground on a new townhome community called Carlisle Place, at 700 West and Carlisle Ave. (3800 South). The community will consist of 57 three-story townhomes with brick-and-stucco exterior.

Mayor Cherie Wood joined Hamlet Homes founder Michael Brodsky along with Gary Jones, COO of UTOPIA, in the groundbreaking ceremony. "Hamlet Homes is a valued partner in changing the face of the City of South Salt Lake and contributing to our Promise South Salt Lake initiative," said Mayor Wood.

Each townhome includes a 90 percent energy-efficient furnace and Energy Star appliances. Each townhome is also wired with UTOPIA's fiber optic, high-speed internet network. Carlisle's first model home is expected to open in late November or early December 2014. "Cherie Wood is breath of fresh air in this City," says Mike Brodsky. "It is a tremendous pleasure to do business with her and city staff. I will take any opportunity to continue building homes in South Salt Lake."

Carlisle Place is Hamlet Homes' 36th community since it was founded in 1994, and its third in South Salt Lake.

Ground Breaking at Carlisle Place with Mike Brodsky, South Salt Lake Mayor Cherie Wood, and Gary Jones.

November 2013